

Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Tuesday 02 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:

Showers at first tonight, becoming drier later.

This Evening and Tonight:

Heavy showers continuing into the evening, before gradually clearing away east. Most places then turning drier with some clearer spells developing, and winds decreasing. Perhaps a few mist patches forming. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Wednesday:

Dry and bright across the north in the morning but rain and cloud in southern counties. Rain spreading across all parts into the afternoon. Clearing the west by evening. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:

Thursday and Friday, some bright spells but also some showers, perhaps heavy at times. Saturday, further spells of rain likely, perhaps turning wintry later as colder east winds develop.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.